5

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A server system for a document processing system includes a plurality of input sources. A plurality of satellite servers are connected to the input sources. The satellite servers receive a plurality of digital files from the input sources. A central server is connected to the satellite servers. The central server receives the digital files from the satellite servers and performs at least one action on at least one of the digital files.